

Death by Regulation: How We Were Robbed of a Golden Age of Health and How We Can Reclaim It

by Mary J. Ruwart, PhD

Greetings!

Many people have different answers for "who's to blame" for our healthcare "mess." Republicans! Democrats! Insurance companies! Big Pharma!

Who's your healthcare culprit?

Mary J. Ruwart, PhD presents an argument that you may not have considered in her new book Death by Regulation.

What's the FDA got to do with it? From the book's website: The 1962 Amendments to the Food & Drug Act have caused the premature death of about half of the Americans who have died since then. This "living law" continues to reshape our health care paradigm from prevention to treatment. Regulations can have side effects that are just as deadly as drugs.

This book doesn't just generalize; Dr. Ruwart provides a myriad of facts and figures to back her claim that significantly more harm than good has resulted from FDA interventions.

The extent of the damage the FDA has done with tragic results is explained in detail in Dr. Ruwart's book.

Dr. Beth Haynes has this to say about the book:

"Ruwart's book--(under 250 pages)--documents how the FDA claims to act on behalf of protecting patients; but, when the full context is examined, the harm caused by delayed release, higher drug cost, abandoned innovations, and the shift away from R&D on nutrition and natural supplements to pharmaceuticals with toxic side effects--the FDA causes far more harm than good. AND, there are superior alternatives to assure safety and efficacy.

"The story of the FDA is a fabulous lesson in how good intentions can go so far awry, and underscores our need to focus not on intention but outcome. We must keep the whole picture in mind. The harms as well as the benefits, the unseen as well as the seen, are all essential to consider when evaluating any intervention, medical, economic or political."
